

“Environmental questions in Great Britain : Between Visibility and Marginalisation”

Vendredi 16 juin 2017

Université Paris-Sorbonne
Maison de la Recherche
28 rue Serpente, Paris.

Salle 223

Journée d'études

MAPS & HDEA avec le soutien du CRECIB. Inscription obligatoire : page.arnaud@gmail.com

10 h : accueil des participants

10h30 -12h Session 1

The 'Modern Moral Garden': Ethics of Care, Gardening and Environment in Enlightenment Britain

Laurent Châtel (Paris-Sorbonne)

King Coal: a benevolent or tyrannical sovereign? Accepting or refusing coal dependency in 19th-century Britain

Charles François Mathis (Bordeaux 3)

Fossil Fuels in Economic Theory, Back to the 19th c. British Debates.

Antoine Missemer (CNRS-CIRED)

13h30-15h : Session 2

Modern British Environmentalism

Brendan Prendiville (Rennes 2)

The Torrey Canyon Disaster and Everyday Environmentalism

Timothy Cooper (University of Exeter)

“Remember, there’s nothing secret about a nuclear power station.” Institutional attempts at defining and communicating on invisible environmental risks in nuclear power stations in British TV footage (1957-1982)

Lucie DeCarvalho (Lille 3)

15h-15h30 Pause

15h30-16h30 : Session 3

Pays de Galles et développement durable: un modèle à suivre?

Stéphanie Bory (Lyon 3)

Brexit and the environment

Neil Carter (University of York),

HDEA

maps
Monde Anglophone
Politiques et Sociétés

