ESEH 2023 Conference: Call for Papers

The 12th ESEH conference will take place in Bern. The European Society for Environmental History (ESEH) is pleased to invite proposals for sessions, individual papers, roundtables, posters, and other – more experimental – forms of communicating scholarship for its 2023 biennial conference. The conference theme has been chosen in connection to Bern's closeness to the Alps and it points to a much broader set of historiographical issues. The deadline for submissions is 31 October 2022.

ESEH 2023 Summer Schools (17-20 August 2023): Call for Applications

We are pleased to announce that two summer schools will precede the European Society for Environmental History (ESEH) conference in Bern in 2023. The themes of the summer schools are Climate and Commons. Both Summer Schools consists of lectures, presentations, in-depth discussions, exercises, and joint-research projects conducted over the Summer Schools. They are open to young researchers (PhD students and early postdocs) worldwide.

The Climate Summer School will be held at Aeschi bei Spiez (Canton of Bern) and the Commons Summer School at Grimontz (Val d'Anniviers, Canton of Valais).

The deadline for applications is 31 October 2022. Participants will get full financial support.

For further information and application, visit www.eseh2023.unibe.ch/summer_schools/

Bern 2023 Travel Grants: Call for Applications

The ESEH and the Local Organising Committee of Bern 2023 will make available a limited number of grants for ESEH members who will deliver papers or present posters (as main author) at the 2023 ESEH Conference in Bern, but who would not be able to attend the conference without external support. These travel grants are intended for graduate students, independent scholars, and those from low-income countries.

This round we have extra funding, but also extra instructions. Please read the call carefully. Step-1 Deadline: 31 October 2022 + Step-2 Deadline: 10 January 2023.

2023 Tallinn Dissertation Prize: Call for Submissions

The ESEH welcomes submissions for the 2023 Tallinn Dissertation Prize in European Environmental History. The Dissertation Prize was established by the ESEH to reward innovative doctoral dissertations based on original research in European environmental history. The Prize was named after Tallinn, the city where it was awarded for the first time at the 10th ESEH Biennial Conference in 2019. Prize aims to support early career environmental history scholars based in Europe or those based outside Europe but whose work contributes to European environmental history.

Deadline for submissions is 31 December 2022.
